35th
Congress

Salzburg, Austria.

16-17-18 September 2026.

Welcome to Salzburg.

We are pleased to invite you to the 35th European Childhood Obesity Group (ECOG) Congress, taking place from 16–18 September 2026 in Salzburg, Austria.

With the title “ImpACT” ECOG 2026 will bring together researchers, clinicians, health professionals, and policymakers to advance sustainable, evidence-based solutions to childhood obesity.

The congress will feature keynote lectures, oral and poster sessions, the Young Investigator Award, an exchange session with German societies, and interactive workshops on eHealth and digital health services, and the third edition of the Policy Workshop. A broad range of thematic areas will cover prevention, pharmacotherapy, lifestyle treatment, education and health literacy, precision health, clinical management, nutrition, physical activity, mechanisms of obesity, and policy.

ECOG 2026 will be hosted at the University of Salzburg, Faculty of Natural and Life Sciences, offering an inspiring academic setting in one of Europe’s most culturally rich cities.

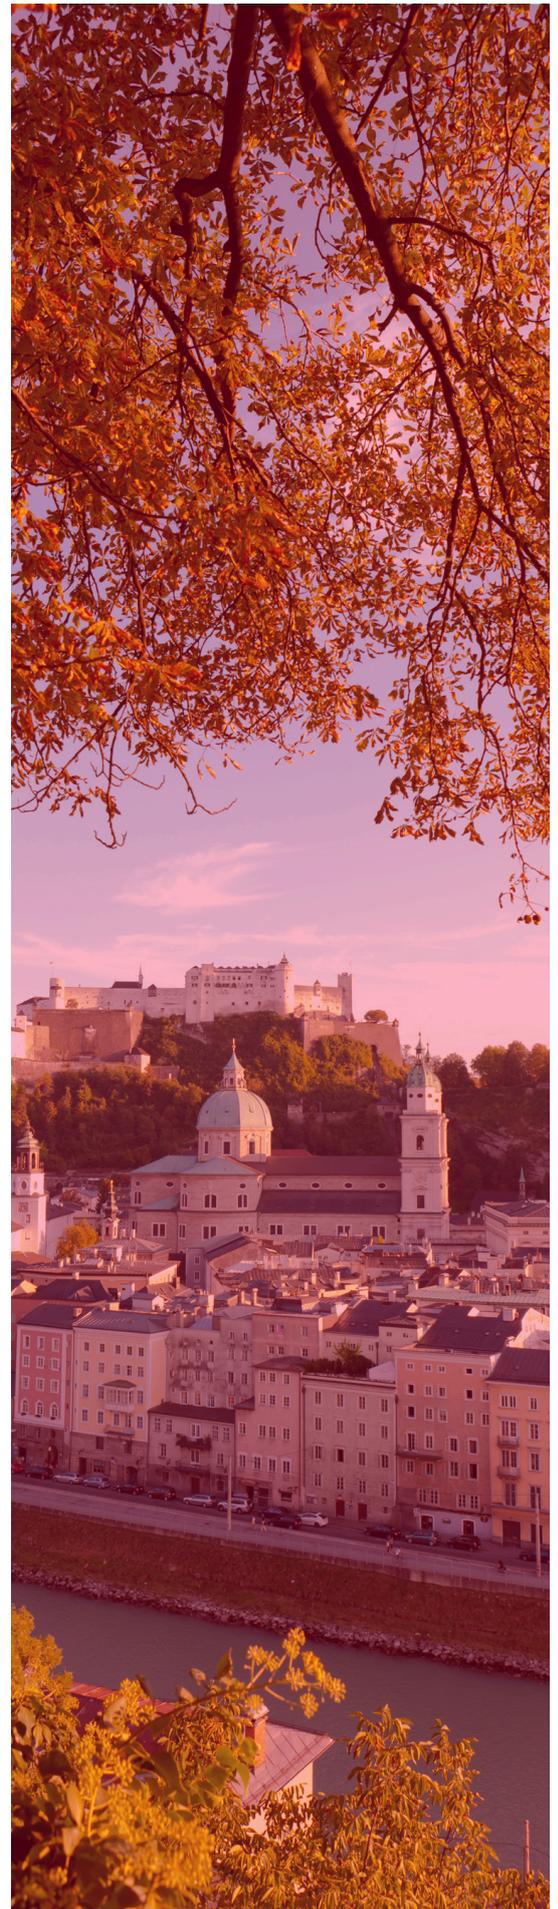

Submit your abstract by May 17 to present your work and join our growing community.

We look forward to welcoming you to Salzburg for ECOG 2026.

About ECOG

The European Childhood Obesity Group (ECOG) is a pan-European association of professionals dealing with childhood obesity and overweight. ECOG brings together experts from a diversity of disciplines, ranging from paediatricians, psychologists, nutritionists, geneticists, physical activity experts, economists, and more – all united by an unwavering commitment to the study and prevention of childhood obesity.

ECOG was founded in 1991 with the mission of helping the European community to fully understand the health, social, psychological and economic impacts of childhood obesity.

The associations' beginnings date back to 1988, when Belgian paediatrician Walter Burniat wrote to British paediatrician Elizabeth Poskitt, suggesting that they meet at the First European Congress on Obesity (ECO) in Stockholm and discuss the lack of knowledge and dedicated advocacy and initiatives focused on childhood obesity specifically. The concept slowly evolved over a series of meetings in the following years, until the first ECOG workshop was organized in Brussels in 1991.

It was during this workshop that it became evident that there was no common definition of obesity in children, and that existing definitions relying on BMI alone were inadequate – giving way to the elaboration of an international definition of childhood obesity (Poskitt EME. 1995. Defining childhood obesity: The relative body mass index. European Childhood Obesity Group. Acta Paediatrica 84; 961-3).

Since then, ECOG has grown steadily, boasting increasing partnerships and involvement in major educational and European projects and a flagship congress that gathers hundreds of experts in the field each year.

Young Investigator Award

One of ECOG's key objectives is to support the development of Early Career Researchers and to foster excellence in childhood obesity research. In line with this mission, ECOG is pleased to introduce the ECOG Young Investigator Awards (ECOG YIA) as part of the ECOG Congress 2026 in Salzburg.

The ECOG Young Investigator Awards aim to recognise and promote outstanding scientific contributions from young researchers working in the field of childhood and adolescent obesity. This new initiative provides an opportunity for early-career scientists to showcase their work, gain visibility within the international ECOG community, and receive recognition for scientific excellence.

Eligible participants (defined as investigators aged 35 years or younger when uploading the abstract) may choose to enter the ECOG Young Investigator Award competition when submitting their work to the ECOG Congress 2026. Abstracts submitted to the competition will undergo review, and shortlisted candidates will be invited to present their work during dedicated sessions at the Congress.

Green Meeting

As part of our commitment to sustainability, ECOG Salzburg 2026 is organised as a Green Meeting and follows the standards of the Austrian Ecolabel (Österreichisches Umweltzeichen). This means we aim to minimise the environmental impact of the conference while ensuring high quality and comfort for all participants.

What this means for you:

- Green catering: Our catering concept prioritises seasonal and regional ingredients, a strong plant-based selection, and measures to reduce food waste.
- Resource-conscious organisation: We focus on reducing waste, limiting printed materials, and using environmentally friendly products and services where possible.
- Your mode of travel matters: We encourage you to support these efforts by choosing low-emission travel options if feasible. If flight are necessary, aim at larger hubs like Vienna and Munich, both within a 3h train ride distance from Salzburg to avoid short-haul connecting flights. The Austrian NightJet sleeper train system connects well to upper Italy, Switzerland, Bruxelles, Amsterdam, Hamburg, Berlin (via Vienna). We will award a 'smart travel award' to the three longest train rides!
